

Subscribe | Advertising | Reader Services | Business Web | Contact Us

WESTCHESTER COUNTY BUSINESS JOURNAL

archive archive

FEATURES

Ask Andi

Letters of credit

Fly on the Wall

Ossining nonprofit ties familiar faces, affordable places

New Arrivals

Construction with a woman's touch

Profits & Passions

Frank Colucci

To the Editor

County should promote cycling for commuters

ViewPoint

High tech, and high hopes

SPECIAL SECTIONS

Special Section

Luxurious Living

Focus Section

Investment Strategies & Retirement

THIS WEEK | May 29, 06

Newsmakers | Credits, Clients and Awards | Public Notices | On the Agenda

FEATURED STORY

Firm perfects wireless switching system

By ALEX PHILIPPIDIS

With more than $15 million in additional funding on hand, a White Plains company is months away from bringing to market a chip-based technology that will make switching between wireless networks from a single device as easy as switching between AM and FM on a radio.

TOP STORIES

Westchester One under contract to Boston investor

By ALEX PHILIPPIDIS

Westchester's tallest office building is being sold to a Boston-based real estate investment firm that has sought to make a big splash in the county's commercial real estate market over the past year.

Icahn's latest deal: A lease in White Plains

By ALEX PHILIPPIDIS

The publicly traded holding company owned by Bedford billionaire financier Carl Icahn is moving from Mount Kisco into downtown White Plains.

Quarter saw 3 VC winners

Sandbridge Technologies was one of three Westchester companies recorded as receiving venture capital during the first quarter, according to the quarterly MoneyTree Survey issued by PricewaterhouseCoopers with Venture Economics and the National Venture Capital Association.

Auto insurer expands progressively in Yonkers

By ALEX PHILIPPIDIS

Progressive Casualty Insurance Co. is expanding its Yonkers presence, adding 10,254 square feet to its offices at 1 Executive Blvd.

With new branches, Commerce doubles its Westchester bet

By ALEX PHILIPPIDIS

Fast-growing Commerce Bank plans to double its Westchester presence by year's end, with the opening of five new branches or 'stores' this year and one next year.

Greenburgh rental-housing project enters its ninth year

By ALEX PHILIPPIDIS

Even as local reviews have stretched into a ninth year, a decision is finally within sight on plans by two familiar developers to build a $100 million, 444-unit garden-apartment rental complex in Greenburgh near its border with Elmsford.

Robert Martin chases residential deals in California

By ALEX PHILIPPIDIS

Nearly a half-century after establishing itself as a major developer in Westchester and a few years after expanding its portfolio to Florida, Robert Martin Company L.L.C. is now looking to California for a few good deals.

T-Town C-Town looks to stretch

By CHRISTINA OCCHIPINTI

The owner of the C-Town Supermarket in Tarrytown is seeking to expand his store into space formerly occupied by a restaurant and a bookstore.

Mamaroneck yacht club's housing plan out of limbo

By DAVID TOTH

The latest installment in the Mamaroneck Beach & Yacht Club saga ended with state Supreme Court Justice Jonathan Lippman ordering the village Planning Board to begin processing the club's application to build seasonal housing and make improvements to its property. The April 20 decision gave the board 30 days to comply or face contempt charges.

Business community lends expertise to prison

program

By Jane K. Dove

Businesses in Westchester, assisted by the local Retired Senior Volunteers Program (RSVP), are lending support and expertise to a pre-release employment program at the Taconic Correctional Facility in Bedford Hills.

Electricity seller heading to Stamford

By DAVID GURLIACCI

A company that operates nuclear power plants is moving a marketing office this summer from White Plains to Stamford, Conn.

Newsmakers :: Credits, Clients and Awards :: Public Notices :: On the Agenda ::

copyright 2006 Westfair Communications Inc.

3 Gannett Drive, White Plains NY 10604

Tel. 914-694-3600 + Fax 914-694-3699